Education

Currently pursuing

Master of Science in Engineering - Design and Product Development with a major in Industrial Engineering, 4th year.

Brief description of the program:

The Master of Science program in Industrial Design and Product Development at Linköping University is a broad program covering areas such as mathematics, mechanics, strength of materials, mechanical engineering, industrial economics, sustainability, and various aspects of product development and design. Some of these areas are covered at a fundamental level, while the main focus of the program is on product development and industrial design. The program includes many different types of projects with varying focuses, such as materials, user-driven design, multifunctional solutions to one or more problems, and more. The main purpose of the program is to develop an understanding of the product development process, how it can be applied in different situations, and how to work effectively as part of a project team.
